Overview

• Context: Local government and English devolution
• Analysis: Headlines from the White Paper
• Reflections: Where do we go from here?
Context
Governance of the UK

- UK Government based in Westminster, highly centralised by comparable international standards:
  - In Scotland, a list of matters reserved to the UK Government is explicitly listed in the Scotland Act 1998 (and amended by the Scotland Acts of 2012 and 2016). Any matter not explicitly listed in the Act is implicitly devolved to the Scottish Parliament e.g. Health, Housing, Education, Justice, Taxation
  - In Wales, a list of matters reserved to the UK Government is explicitly listed under the provisions of the Wales Act 2017. Any matter not explicitly listed in the Act is implicitly devolved to the Welsh Parliament e.g. Education, Health and Social Care, Some Taxes
  - In Northern Ireland, arrangements are slightly different and powers are divided into three categories: Transferred Powers, which are those controlled by the Northern Ireland Assembly e.g. Agriculture, Education, Transport; Reserved Powers, which remain in Westminster, but might be transferred at a later date e.g. Prisons; and, Excepted Powers, which cannot be transferred without new laws in Westminster e.g. elections, defence
  - In England there is no national devolution, but a spread of subnational ‘devolution deals’
Local government in England

• No constitutional protection
• Councils provide more than 800 public services – with 1,200 legal duties
  – Children, vulnerable adults, cultural services
  – Highways, transport, housing and the environment
• In some parts of non-metropolitan England, these functions are split:
  – District/borough councils (housing, planning etc.)
  – County councils (adult social care, waste disposal)
• In metropolitan areas these functions are delivered by a single authority (unitary)
• In City Regions, such as London and Greater Manchester these local delivery functions are supported by sub-national strategic authorities
  – Greater Manchester Combined Authority
  – Greater London Authority
• At the very small scale there are 9,000 parish councils
• Stats: 20,000 councillors, over 2 million employees, ~£50 billion expenditure p/a
Local government finance

Percentage of revenue income (excluding direct schools funding and grants outside aggregate external finance)

- 2010-11:
  - Sales, fees and charges (estimate): 18%
  - Council tax: 36%
  - Business rates (locally retained): 46%
  - Government grant (including nationally redistributed business rates): 46%

- 2015-16:
  - Sales, fees and charges (estimate): 21%
  - Council tax: 41%
  - Business rates (locally retained): 19%
  - Government grant (including nationally redistributed business rates): 20%

- 2019-20:
  - Sales, fees and charges (estimate): 21%
  - Council tax: 51%
  - Business rates (locally retained): 20%
  - Government grant (including nationally redistributed business rates): 8%

Subnational tax as a per cent of total tax (X axis); subnational government expenditure on economic affairs as a per cent of GDP (Y axis); bubble size = population

- Subnational tax is a greater share of total tax

- Spends more subnationally on economic affairs
HM Treasury launched an open invitation for devolution deal bids in Summer 2015
• Received 34 bids from across the country of varying depth and detail
• These were reviewed by a cross government team, looking for deliverability, ambition and consensus
• Those that passed this process went on to face to face political negotiations between ministers and local areas
• Strong preference for directly mayoral combined authority
• Initial deals had greater variety, over time more of an ‘off the shelf approach’
English devolution: Powers

- Focus on economic interventions: skills, growth funding, transport, housing
- Some elements of public service reform: health, justice, police and crime
- Strong sense that willingness of different government departments to devolve crucial to shape of local deals
- Devolution deals negotiated within context of strong preference for a mayoral combined authority, division of powers at local level between Mayor and Combined Authority
- Greater London Authority has powers and functions defined in primary legislation (transport, policing, economic development, fire)
- Mayoral combined authorities a more mixed picture of policy co-design, secondary legislation and primary legislation (e.g. Greater Manchester health)

Reflections
LGA Priorities

• Expanding the devolution framework: drawing down powers to deliver
• Sharing the learning between areas: devolution support networks
• Broadening the conversation: levelling up locally inquiry
• Getting a grip on the data and money: defragmenting funding, harnessing information
Where do we go from here?

• Hierarchy and the complexities of English local government
• Dialogue and the need to invest in the creation of a genuinely shared local vision
• Transnational challenges and building community resilience
• Covid, crises and the limits of control
