What is 'Get Out There' ?

'Get Out There' is an exciting new three year project launched in March 2010. We will work with local people to provide training courses for adults and day trips away for families.

The project is funded by Natural England through Access to Nature, as part of the Big Lottery Fund's Changing Spaces programme.

"We encourage them, help, inspire them, to work with nature"

What will trainees get from the project?

Through our 12 week training course (one day a week) you will learn a range of useful and rewarding new skills in basic environmental management. Gain practical conservation management skills, experience in first aid, improve your wildlife ID and sell them!

You will get the opportunity to visit larger more varied sites across London such as woodlands, wetlands and meadows, as well as our own local wet gardens in Hamstead. Our courses are open to adults who want to try something new and 'Get Out There'!

Highly interested in recruiting people who want to be part of the project. You don't need experience to join in.
